The Elephant Trumpets

London South Bank University is hosting a series of free public events designed to get people talking about people-powered creative social change in Elephant and Castle.

From Tuesday 1 April, for two weeks, students, action groups, local businesses, and anyone interested in neighbourhoods, local regeneration and urban change will be converging on the Clarence Centre for Enterprise and Innovation at St George's Circus.

Creative workshops will swap digital skills, ideas and issues, and map local social networks. Local business will have the chance to test new pilots and apply for crowd-funding. LSBU students will be able to pitch new ideas and find out about the skills needed to become local entrepreneurs through workshops.

Local architects offer drop-in design surgeries

Five Waterloo-based architecture practices have signed-up to a new drop-in design surgery initiative launched by Waterloo Quarter Business Improvement District.

The free design surgeries allow local residents and businesses the chance to pick the brains of local architects about making the most of their property and work space – all for free.

The free advice sessions will be held in a local cafe each month. The next surgery takes place on Wednesday 30 April between 3pm and 6pm at Four Corners Café, 12 Lower Marsh.

"We have some impressive architectural talent based in Waterloo but for most of us it can be quite daunting approaching an architect for a formal meeting," said Helen Santer, chief executive of Waterloo Quarter.

"These new design surgeries will allow our residents and businesses the chance to access good design advice in a really informal way.

"It's free advice, there's absolutely no obligation and people really can pop-in and discover that access to the right advice can save money and add value."

Black Architecture, Clarke Renner, NaganJohnson, Weston Williamson and Stride Treglown have all agreed to take part in the initiative.

Picasso textiles pull in the crowds

Little-known textiles and garments by Pablo Picasso are attracting record numbers of visitors to the Fashion and Textile Museum in Bermondsey Street.

Visitors to the Museum have trebled since the exhibition Artist Textiles: Picasso to Warhol was opened by Sir Nicholas Serota in January. With over 1,800 tickets being sold in a week, the Museum is now opening on Thursday evenings and on Sundays from 6 April to meet demand.

"It is surprising," says guest curator Richard Chamberlain, "that when we first wrote to the Picasso Foundation about our textile discoveries, we were told that 'Picasso did not design textiles'. Yet the evidence in the exhibition shows that he not only created many works on fabric but also how widely advertised these were in the 1960s."

Sleep Easy WorkshopsCaroline Hinkes, a former A&E sister at St Thomas' Hospital, has spent the last two years working on a stress reduction project for a London council and believes she has uncovered a solution for people who are having trouble getting to sleep and staying asleep. Her new workshops start this month at St Thomas' Hospital www.sleepeasyworkshops.co.ukRNLI seeks volunteersThe Royal National Lifeboat Institution (RNLI) has issued an SOS call for help to raise funds during London Lifeboat Week (28 April to 4 May). The busiest day of the week will be Tuesday 29 April when hundreds of collectors will be needed to rattle buckets and collect money throughout the capital, including at SE1's mainline railway stations. rnli.org/londonlifeboatsGrowing GrantsFor the second year running Bankside Open Spaces Trust and the City Bridge Trust are offering individuals and community organisations small grants to help kick-start or sustain local gardening and greening projects. The Bankside & Waterloo Growing Grants are available in sums of £100, £200 and £400. Examples of projects to be funded include window box schemes, bird boxes, planting in parks, gardening tools, planters in your entranceway or other ways to bring people together in gardening. The grant will provide funding to individuals, community groups, schools or charities to support projects which involve gardening, wildlife or improving a green space in the SE1 area only. For further information and an application form email info@bost.org.uk. All applications need to be received by Tuesday 20 May. Successful applications will be announced in June.Film score competitionThe organisers of the Waterloo Festival have teamed up with the British Film Institute to launch a film score composition competition. This year's festival takes place from Thursday 26 June to Tuesday 1 July with the theme of 'War and the World 1914'. The festival, now in its fourth year, is centred on St John's Waterloo. Last year the festival held its first film score composition competition which received entries from all over the UK and abroad. This year's contest, in association with the BFI, has recently opened for entries with a closing date of Friday 11 April for registration. Completed scores must be received by Friday 9 May. Entries are open to budding composers and musicians between the ages of 18 and 35. The brief is to create a film score to accompany A Journey's End, a short film of about 5 minutes which has been specially written, devised and filmed in Waterloo. www.stjohnswaterloo.orgSingology ChoirLearn to sing with Singology Choir at their new London Bridge branch on Thursday evenings 7-9pm starting on 8 May at Bermondsey Central Hall. www.singology.comCOPYPRINTS LTDEST 1959

Sunday 27 April ST GEORGE'S DAY

12 noon-4pm; free
Many people only think of St George as the patron saint of England, but the dragon-slayer is also the patron saint of many other communities, including Catalonia. In celebration of this, Borough Market has teamed up with the Government of Catalonia for a special day to honour our shared saint, diverse cultures and traditions. Borough Market traders will be showcasing the best of their produce and there'll also be Demonstration Kitchens throughout the day focusing on English and Catalan dishes. The exchanging of roses and books as a sign of respect is something of a Catalan custom and the UK delegation of the Government of Catalonia will perform the ritual with members of the public, while traders will hand out roses to revellers throughout the day. There will also be traditional music and entertainment throughout the day.

THE BRIDGE

Starts 2pm at Tabard Street Piazza (please arrive 15 minutes before departure); £9 (conc £8); booking advised

Local history vividly brought to life on these guided walks with writer-performer John Constable, author of The Southwark Mysteries and Secret Bankside. Exactly a thousand years ago in 1014, King Olave of Norway dramatically destroyed the old London Bridge; an event which gave rise to the popular nursery rhyme. The later bridge, familiar to Shakespeare, survived until Charles Dickens' time. On this walk you will explore the London Bridge environs, south and then north, of the river that has shaped our history.

A TASTE OF HONEY
Lyttelton Theatre; In repertoire; £12-£50

Directed by Bijan Sheibani. Written by Shelagh Delaney when she was nineteen, this is one of the great defining and taboo-breaking plays of the 1950s, offering an explosive celebration of the vulnerabilities and strengths of the female spirit in a deprived and restless world. When her mother Helen runs off with a car salesman, feisty teenager Jo takes up with a black sailor who promises to marry her, before he heads off for the seas, leaving her pregnant and alone. Art student Geoff moves in and assumes the role of surrogate parent until, misguidedly, he sends for Helen and their unconventional setup unravels. Bursting with energy and daring, this exhilarating and angry depiction of harsh, working-class life in post-war Salford is shot through with love and humour, and infused with jazz.

SHELLSHOCK

Tue-Sat 7.30pm; Sat & Sun 5pm; £15 (conc £13)
With 14 original songs and a powerful storyline Tim Thomas's new musical is an exhilarating and ultimately uplifting story. It is 1975. Britain is fighting a secret desert war. A soldier returns traumatised by his experiences. His wife and daughter struggle to come to terms with his despair. As an escape his little girl remembers how he used to be, the perfect Dad, big and strong, hilarious and wild. It is very much about her, about growing up and seeing the world in all its complexity. But another story intertwines with this one. It has deep echoes of World War I and an awful secret which a woman has lived with in the intervening years. That war started a century ago and ShellShock is one of the world-wide events which will commemorate those shattering hostilities. The story of the musical was inspired by a conversation between the writer Tim Thomas and his grandmother when he was just a small boy. Like all of her generation she endured that terrible time and he was transfixed by the tale of hope that she told.

IN THE MAKING

This exhibition, curated by Edward Barber and Jay Osgerby, captures over twenty objects mid-manufacture, putting the aesthetic of the unfinished centre stage. The objects have been selected because they each have an unexpected quality about them in those moments, hours or days before they assume their final, recognisable form. These points in the making process capture a peculiar and unconventional slice of time in the production of everyday objects such as tennis balls, banknotes and even diamonds.

ABSTRACT DRAWING
Richard Deacon CBE is considered one of the most important British sculptors of his generation and has exhibited internationally since the early 1980s. He won the Turner prize in 1987, and in early 2014 a major retrospective of his work will be presented at Tate Britain. The activity of drawing is crucial to his work as a sculptor which explores the manner in which a range of materials react to methods of manipulation and construction. This exhibition is his exploration of the idea of 'abstraction' in drawing. It includes work by an international selection of artists who employ various strands of abstract drawing, from the calligraphic to the generative.

FASHION & GARDENS: SPRING/ SUMMER - AUTUMN/WINTER

Like gardeners working in their gardens, the modern fashion world follows a seasonal cycle, always looking ahead to the next season, trying to anticipate the changes of light, temperature, mood and scale that await at the turn of the year. Both gardens and dress aim to bring a sense of occasion to a season. Midsummer is more authentic if passed among organza and roses; russet velvet and gold-licked chrysanthemums concentrate our sense that autumn has arrived. Fashion & Gardens is the first exhibition to explore the relationship between fashion and garden design, from the age of Queen Elizabeth I to the catwalks of London Fashion Week 2014. The exhibition, curated by writer, historian and Garden Museum Trustee Nicola Shulman, will identify and celebrate the many links and correspondences between gardening and fashion design. The connection has existed for centuries, but this exhibition is the first attempt to articulate it.

VISIONS & RECOLLECTIONS: PRUNELLA CLOUGH & KEITH VAUGHAN

11am-6pm (Closed Good Friday to Easter Monday & Fri 25 April)

Prunella Clough and Keith Vaughan were leading painters and teachers of the post-war period and close friends for over 35 years. This exhibition, for the first time, explores the nature of the friendship that these two very different artists shared and their working methods which were similar although their paintings could not have been more different. The exhibition is curated by Gerard Hastings and David Evans. Surviving friends of both painters have also assisted in the organisation of this project which brings together work from private collections in the UK, Paris and the USA.

TIM RUDMAN: TREEWORCS

The theme embraces the characters of trees, their environments, seasons and changing appearance in different weather conditions and at different times of day and night. With these changes the same tree can look majestic and statuesque or vulnerable and damaged. The prints are all traditionally wet-processed black and white silver gelatin prints and silver gelatin lith prints, hand crafted in the darkroom to the highest archival standards and toned with combinations of sepia, selenium and gold toners for increased archival protection and for aesthetic purposes.

RICHARD HAMILTON
£13.10 (conc £11.30)

One of the most influential British artists of the 20th century, Richard Hamilton (1922-2011) is widely regarded as a founding figure of pop art, who continued to experiment and innovate over a career of 60 years. Tate Modern stages the first retrospective to encompass the full scope of Hamilton's work, from his early exhibition designs of the 1950s to his final paintings of 2011. This new exhibition explores his relationship to design, painting, photography and television, as well as his engagement and collaborations with other artists.
